VILLONI APPOINTED HONORARY PRESIDENT

"This Freshman Class has shown much enthusiasm and spirit, and I would like to see that spirit carried over for the rest of the year after the election and installation of your own officers", were the words of Senior Dominic Villani, honorary Freshman Class president.

Dom, appointed by Student Council president, Joseph Lee succeeds Art Kerwin, '56, first to fill this post. His six week tenure of office as their honorary president, affords the Freshman class many advantages. It gives the class a director in their first few weeks of adjustments, affords a voice in the Student Council as well as a chairman for their meetings. In addition, it provides individual members of the class with the opportunity of acquainting themselves with College student government.

FOUR FRESHMEN INSTALLED ON SAC

Next Thursday, the Council will install the four freshmen they have chosen as representatives to the Council. These men will hold office until the end of this semester at which time those officers elected by the class itself will be installed.

When asked if he considered this phase of the 2 year old revised Freshmen Government program of value, Dom replied that it definitely was citing the opportunity for the council to obtain a more thorough knowledge of the class before picking the 4 delegates. Dom said this would insure the most capable men of being given the posts. As for overall class reception of the plan, the protem prexy said Freshmen were greatly pleased.

ON AND OFF CAMPUS

To those who missed Dr. Decker's lecture last Friday night we can only say that it's regrettable you were not there. We were very favorably impressed by the learned speaker's address and the Standing Room Only, turn-away audience.

Expertly developing the role of private business in American foreign policy, Dr. Decker gave his listeners a true insight into the technique of maintaining harmonious relations. Our one criticism was that he limited his discussion to America's relations with a particular country. Yet his outlined principles could be universally applied with varying degrees of success.

Our recommendation: don't miss future lectures and arrive early to obtain a seat.

What is the reason behind the disagreement between the college students of U.V.M. and St. Michael's, and the local high school teenagers in Burlington? Some of these "New Big Frosh'', it seems who forget that not so long ago they were in high school have decided that they are going to take over the teenage high school dances. These "tough guys" make it hard for the respectable college man wanting to go to these dances. When these teenagers fight back for their rights, everyone wonders why! Remember, no one likes to be pushed around!

* * * * * *

At last, someone in Washington has had the courage to risk the political consequences of offending the many paranoiac patriotic organizations that afflict our country by proposing an end to the draft. It is high time Congress took steps to relieve the taxpayer of the hag-riding burden of excessive military expense. Reliable authoritnes believe that the strength of our military forces can be maintained at between 1½ to 2 million men through volunteers alone. With to-day's atomic weapons and the even greater weapons to come, this force certainly is potent enough to preserve our position as the leading nation of the world.

FATHER ONG ADDRESSES D.E.S. MEMBERS

Last Saturday night, Father Walter J. Ong, S.J., spoke of Christ and the Technological Age, at the induction of the new members of Delta Epsilon Sigma honor society.

This renowned author, lecturer, and teacher, explained how man has become, through the passage of time, increasingly interested in growing intellectually. Man today in contrast to earlier times, utilizes the pattern of progress that has been established to gain a better incite into the future.

In answer to some questions concerning the extent of Catholic intellectual growth, Father Ong said that since the Catholics put such emphasis on the second Person in the Trinity, Jesus, that they have a better look at the universe than others.

Concluding, Father Ong stated that Catholic leadership should dedicate itself to this forward movement.

Michaelmen To Donate Blood

Once again the Hilltoppers are solicited to bare their arms for phelbotomy - to give a pint of live-saving blood in the annual Red Cross campus drawing. Blood does save lives. Witness the case of the little girl from Vermont who recently received 20 pints in Boston while surgeons repaired her heart; or ask where the blood came from that was used on one of the Michaelmen seriously injured last year. Less publicized are the innumerable pints of blood that rest in the hospital refrigerator ready to be employed the minute hemorrhage begins in the operating or delivery rooms. It's life-saving blood from human donors that is needed whether you see it in a bottle or dry pack or in the plastic bag of Korean fame.

This year the Biology Club in cooperation with the Student Council is promoting the drive.

Monday October 28 from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. in Austin Hall are the vital statistics.

Get those pledges back to the bookstore so we can set a time for your drawing . . . No chow-line waiting period. The Red Cross can handle 12 donors every fifteen minutes. No need to feign hunger or swoon after the drawing. . ., refreshments will be served to all including those late-risers who will be downing their first cup of coffee for the day.

A few passing remarks:

If under 21 (and not institutionalized maritally) parents consent is required so have the signed permission with you when you charge through the door.

A few questions concerning recent illnesses, immunization shots, etc. will be asked at the door to insure that you are fit to be on the business end of the needle.

BEANIE UP BUSTER...

by Jack Keating

Where are the beanies? Only two weeks of the new year have gone by and already the fledgling Michaelmen have shed their covers. However, before the hilltop is shaken with any startling innovations, the oldtimers feel that that the Class of '62 should be reminded of a few facts concerning the tradition, which has been enjoyed for many years by those who are proud to call themselves "Michaelmen."

Beanies are as much a part of college life for Freshmen as is going to class. The wearing of such apparel is not a quaint custom which originated in Winooski Park, but is a part of Freshmen days in almost every college in the country. Consider it an initiation, if you wish; why not? Every organization has some manner of initiation, but the beanie plays a very important role. It marks the freshman as a newcomer to the campus and assures him of receiving that extra friendly word of advice or information from both the upperclassmen and the faculty.

But to those Freshmen who still consider the beanie as an insult to their manhood, don't despair! There is a traditional way of removing the purple head gear. This privilege is gained by defeating your immediate superiors, namely, the Sophomores, in a field day consisting of such events as the fifty-man relay race, pole climbing, a tug of war and other events. This field day date to be announced at a later time, and in the event of a Sophomore victory, the beanies must be worn for an additional two weeks at the end of which the Sophomores may be challenged in a football game for another attempt of the removal of the brain-cover.

For those die-hards, who still intend to roam the campus with naked heads, we foreword this ultimatum from the Student Council, "If the beanies are not worn consistently before the field day, they will be worn throughout the first semester." This rule will be enforced by the three upper classes and the faculty, who will position themselves at strategic points such as the chow hall, the snack bar, the dormitories and other buildings. Now that you realize that there is a reason behind the purple skull caps and that tradition is a hard thing to "buck", we feel sure that you will begin to wear them proudly.

"PROFILES IN COURAGE"

By George Latimer

The virtue of courage often wears a strange and surprising mask. It can be found in the most improbable of men in the least likely circumstances. A profession no less dubious than politics has produced its share of courageous men. To prove this Senator John F. Kennedy wrote his best seller, "Profiles in Courage". Senator Kennedy supports his thesis by recreating moments of decision from the lives of American political figures. Several of the most striking figures include; John Quincy Adams who opposed his own party and State in support of Jefferson's embargo of 1807; Daniel Webster who evoked the scorn of his native New England by his advocation of the Compromise of 1850; Senator Robert Taft who spoke out against the vindictive and unjust, but highly popular Nuremburg Trials. Each case represents a man's sacrifice of his political life in support of a principle.

It is clear that the object and theme of the Senator's work is aimed at the raising of Politics from the generally low place it now holds in the public mind. He apparently hopes to prove that the babbling, unprincipled, opportunist caricatured in the public imagination is not a true embodiment of this country's leaders. Kennedy admits of this condition when he laments that, "Mothers still want their favorite sons to grow up to be President, but, according to a famous Gallup Poll of some years ago, they do not want them to become politicians in the process".

Although the Senator's purpose is noble, it is far too ambitious to achieve success. The caricature he hopes to explode has been nurtured and preserved through nearly a century of American journalism and literature. The mukraking literature of the past has found willing readers among the American public because most men disdain compromise, and after all, the precise nature of Politics is compromise. Until the public can see greys, rather than merely black or white, the politician is doomed to his present position of disrespect. Until it can realize that the best is often enemy of the good it shall never appreciate the unique sort of courage needed in Politics.

MOST POPULAR GAME that ever went to college—that's Sticklers! Just write a simple riddle and a two-word rhyming answer. For example: What's a big cat shot full of holes? (Answer: peppered leopard.) Both words must have the same number of syllables—bleak freak, fluent truant, vinery finery. Send Sticklers, with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Don't do drawings! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we use in our ads—and for hundreds that never see print. While you're Stickling, light up a light smoke—light up a Lucky. and Mantle are a big question mark and a big factor in the Series.

JIM DESROCHES- JUNIOR CLASS

The Braves should win in 7 games. The Braves have enough good pitchers so that they can rest them enough between games. They have good hitting power in Matthews, Aaron, Adcock and Shoc. The Yankees big handicaps are their injuries and they have no pitching.

PETE GRIFFIN-SOPHOMORE CLASS

Milwaukee has good pitching and their hitting is really powerful, too powerful for the Yankees. The Yankees are pretty unstable and the injuries to Skowron and Mantle will really hurt them. I say the Braves in 6 games.

zone scored the second TD. The score at half time was 13-0 Srs. The second half was different only in that now it was the Frosh who carried the ball. First it was on an interception by Kerrigan, who ran 60 yds. for a TD. Then the passing of Williams and the pass receiving and running of Wierciszewski and Morh the Frosh scored another TD tieing the score at 13-13. The game was highlighted by good defense and a fight saw both benches empty in a hurry.

FROSH OVERPOWER JRS.

Oct. 3rd saw the win hungry Frosh come up against the Jrs., who were also yet to win. The game started with interceptions on both sides and then Dorsey Williams passes started to click and soon the Frosh led 7-0. The second half started slow again, then on a 4th down, a pass from Williams to Mohr, with the help of a good block by one of the officials (Doc Jacobs) the Frosh scored another TD. The Jrs. jumped right back to score a TD on a pass from Lamoureux to Lennon. The extra point was good. Minutes later the Frosh came back to score on a pass.

The game ended with the score at 19-7, with many tired men on the field as both teams fought hard all the way. Standouts for the frosh were Wierciszewski, Morh, and Knobloch. The Jrs. were led by Senecal Fisk, Burke, and Edwards.

NURSES TO JOIN BIOLOGY CLUB

Movies, lectures by guest speakers, demonstration, and trips have been planned for the school year.

FROSH SHOW POWER IN FOOTBALL

SPORTS TALK

By Hank Fortier

A lot has been happening up here on the Hilltop since this column was last in print. From the window of my luxurious apartment in Alumni Hall, the sounds of stamping feet on the gridiron were clearly audible. The spirit and vigor which is manifest at most inter-class football games is proof enough that the sport has definitely made a hit on campus. If proof of what I've just written is needed, one merely has to look at the nose of one of the more prominent senior members of the ROTC. This individual will certainly have a vivid reminder of the "touch?" football games at St. Michael's. If he ever forgets his playing days on the fields of St. Michael's, a look in the mirror will quickly bring back fond memories.

OH! THOSE BRAVES!

Most fervent Yankee fans on campus were walking around with an air which clearly proclaimed to anyone, that the Series was still to be won. The surprising thing about this Series, surprising for Yankee fans anyway, has been the showing which the "Brewers from Milwaukee" have made. Here was a team that was being marked as a choke team. In addition to this, they had to overcome the stigma of being identified with the Boston Red Sox, their long stay in said city being reason for said identification. The interesting thing to note in all this, is that the Braves were not producing in Boston. A quick move to Milwaukee, a brand new stadium, a fervent following and lo! and behold! a new team is born. (Or can all this be explained by that amber colored liquid, which is considered by some to be the elixir of life and which is produced in great quantities in Milwaukee.)

CAMPUS GRAPEVINE

The Freshmen have passed a resolution in their class meeting, expressing a wish to play the U.V.M. Frosh, in a game of tackle football. After seeing the U.V.M. varsity team in action, and after seeing our own Frosh on the gridiron, I'd say that they requested to play the wrong team. In the event that such a game should have the consent of the powers that be, the outcome of the game would be highly questionable. Moving from the improbable to the probable. A game between the two schools on a Freshman level, would stir up quite a bit of interest on campus. Who knows? It might be the first step on the long road of renewing inter-collegiate football at St. Michael's. The views expressed in this column are not necessarily those of anyone else on campus, a label for them could be "Never Never Land".

"Geg! Look at me!"

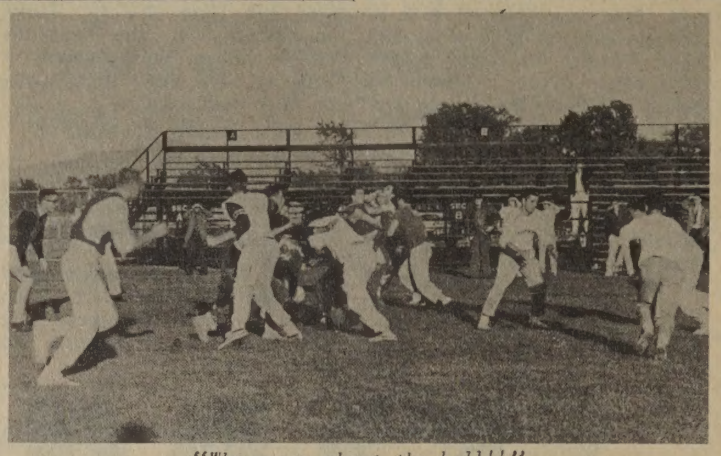
Football has once more taken over the St. Michael's Stadium as the intramural schedule has gotten under way. Each team will play a six game schedule, which started on Sept. 25.

As this paper goes to press there have been 6 games played. On Sept. 25, the Seniors down the Juniors 6-2, Sept. 26 the Sophs defeated the Frosh 12-0, on Sept. 30 the Jrs. and Sophs fought to a 0-0 tie. Oct. 2nd saw the Frosh pitted against the Seniors in a 13-13 deadlock and then the Frosh downed the Juniors 19-7 on Oct. 3.



"Who cares about the ball!!"

SENIORS DISPLAY POWER

In the opening game between the Jrs. and Srs. a TD pass early in the first quarter from Porreca to Haley got the Srs. off to a fast start. From that point on the Jrs. were busy carrying the ball in Srs. territory but always being stopped short of the goal line. At one time the Srs. on a fourth down, having the ball in their own end zone, seeing the possibility of a blocked kick touched the ball down and thus giving the Jrs. a safety. The game saw many good plays especially the ball carrying of Ed. Cashman, the passing of George Porreca and the play of the whole Sr. line. Paul Lennon's passing and running and the runs of Bill Burke kept the Jrs. in the game all the way. Standouts on the line were Jack Edwards and Larry Clifford.

SOPHS SHINE

The Sophs started out on the right foot by beating the Frosh. in a game that was close all the way. Joe Mahoney passed for a TD and ran for another. Behind Mahoney in the backfield was the running of Scarlatelli and DeAngelis, who ran up the yardage with the help of a strong line.

The standout for the Frosh. was Dan Mahoney, a tailback, who did a noteworthy job even though some of his passes were intercepted.

DEADLOCK GAME

Monday saw the Sophs. pitted against the Jrs. in a game that saw many a man limp off the field. The game was played mostly on defense for both sides with Tim Walsh, Mike Fischer and Neil Fisk as the standout for the Jrs. The defensive stalwarts for the Sophs. were Aliazzo and big Denny Murphy. Offensively for the Jrs. there was the running of Joe Maloney, Fran Makula, Bob Senecal and Don Lamoureux. The passes of Joe Mahoney and runs of DeAngelis and Guarnaccia kept the Sophs. in the game all the way.

TOSS-UP

On Oct. 2nd in a game that started slow but ended anything but slow the Frosh and Srs. fought to a 0-0 deadlock. In the first half it was the Srs. all the way, first a pass to the flank from Porreca to Cashman and he went 80 yards for a TD. Later on a ten yard pass from Porreca in the end

FALL TENNIS TOURNAMENT UNDERWAY

The annual Tennis Tourney, which is under the auspices of the Intermural activities committee is in full swing. This year it has as its director Father Boucher with Ray Flynn as manager. Flynn says, that in all the time he has been at the Hilltop the underclass men have never come out in as great a number as this year.

ALBANY SENIOR WINS

On Saturday Bob Malone defeated frosh Wally Anctil 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. Anctil got the first set in a see-saw battle but the Albany senior finally wore down his tiring opponent taking the next two sets.

KENNEDY PROVES THREAT

Sunday afternoon saw junior Walt Kennedy sink freshman Willie Hagerty 6-0, 6-0. Kennedy's pin point serves made many observers feel that the quarter finalist of last year could be a serious threat to defending champ Bob Coonan.

LATE COMERS

One point became clear this weekend and that is that many new members are late in scheduling their matches. The dead line of every round is Thursday of that week.

COUNCILMEN FAVOR MILWAUKEE

With World Series fever quite noticeable on campus, an inquiring Michaelman reporter got pre-Series interviews with a well known member of each class on the Series' outcome. Fred Haney's colorful Braves were the choice of the three upperclassmen; an ardent Yankee fan from the Freshman class was the lone dissenter.

PETE RUSSELOWSKI- SENIOR CLASS

"I would pick the Braves in 6 games. They have good young material; their pitching is sound and the hitting of Aaron, Adcock, and Matthews should really bother the Yankee pitching. The injuries to Skowran

Ski Team Starts Ball Rolling

With the brilliant riot of color surrounding us in the country it's a sure sign of cool weather just around the corner. The St. Michael's skiers aware of this have started their training to get into shape for the slopes. Entering their 2nd week of training, they have devoted 1 hour a day playing touch football, running and performing other exercises, in view of conditioning the muscles and the lungs. Football is one means that Coach Casavant is using this year to keep up the interest in the practice sessions and develop team spirit.

TEAM AMBITIOUS

The general feeling now expressed by the team is that the present lack in experience must be compensated by a longer and heavier training schedule, a fact that is accepted by all.

During practice last week, the skiers viewed a new ski slope not distant from campus, and work was done last Saturday by the group clearing the area of bushes for the coming winter.

TOUGH SPORT

One can appreciate the training schedule only when one realizes that the cross-country courses run by skiers in intercollegiate meets range from 6 to 10 miles and including considerable change in altitude. The tremendous amount of energy that is required of the skier to do this can come only as a result of conscientious training on the part of the individual.

YEAR SHOWS PROMISE

Recently, a notice was put to the new men around campus, the frosh in an effort to develop a freshmen team and schedule. "Among those reporting" states Coach Casavant "are some which show considerable ski experience that should prove a boon to the team in the not-too-distant future."

Thus with a good help from the freshmen and with good spirit prevailing, this year's schedule may not prove to be as difficult as had been assumed.
